FinTechs and partner financial institutions will hear from the Cash Transfer Working Group, a sub-set of the Food Security Sector using cash to address food security needs in Sierra Leone. In Sierra Leone, over 3.5 million people are food insecure, without access to a sufficient amount of safe and nutritious food. This is also the volume of people that the Cash Transfer Groups face significant challenges in delivery cash-assistance to.

The discussion will provide valuable insights to the FinTechs and overall financial inclusion industry on designing and piloting tech-based solutions for reaching the vulnerable households in cost-effective, timely, and convenient ways which can also result in greater financial inclusion.
